ment to "clean house" on the New Rochelle police force.

His appointment followed months of public appeal by civic leaders who were that crime element had infiltrated the Police Department and other agencies in New Rochelle.

Commissioner Carey was considered a success, though during his tenure he was sometimes criticized by civil libertarians.

Edward Faulkner Carey was born in Brooklyn. He joined the New York Highway Patrol, then spent three years as an insurance salesman, bodyguard and a writer. He was later recruited by the State Police Department's Police Department in 1955. In that capacity, he was involved with conducting large scale...
